Four guns were fired off from the top of Punchbowl last evening with a very loud report. Marshal Kaulukou sent five police officers to inquire into the matter, but they were unable to find anyone. A detachment of the Household Guards went up, but returned with a similar result. It was an outrageous piece of business, to say the least, and created some little excitement.

It is Said

That the firing of guns at a late hour last night was a big nuisance; that it ought to be put a stop to; that when the last lot of lepers were sent to Molokai their friends were on the wharf to say goodbye, and kissed and rubbed noses with them; that there were ten deaths from fever during the past month; that a very large hole is being dug in the rear of the Royal Mausoleum; that the Kamehamehas are to be buried in it; that a good many members of the Rifles don't like the new Military bill; that a speech was made at the Armory last night; that military dictatorship is played out; that Gonsalves has some splendid views of the different points of interest on the islands; that everyone should take an interest in the regatta; that very important news may be looked for on the arrival of the Australia on the 15th; that the Union is willing to take off its blinders; that the breach of promise case has been compromised by the payment of $8,000 to the widow; that the Nob Hill party was a success; that the King's name should be left out of politics; that a testimonial concert ought to be tendered Mr. Chas. Michiels, the cornetist, before he leaves; that he has always been ready to offer his services when called upon; that the band will play at Emma Square this afternoon.

KAMEHAMEHA SCHOOL.

The Opening Ceremony—Royal and Other Distinguished Guests.

The Kamehameha School, founded and endowed under the provisions of the will of the late Hon. Mrs. Bernice Pauahi Bishop, has already formed the subject of a sketch in these columns. Though not yet complete in all its details, the arrangements were sufficiently advanced some few weeks ago to admit of the pupils commencing their studies. The formal opening was, however, deferred until yesterday and the attendant circumstances were such as pointed to a future full of usefulness and calculated to confer a lasting and ever-increasing benefit upon this community.

Among the visitors were their Majesties the King and Queen, H. R. H. Princess Liliuokalani, H. R. H. Princess Kaiulani, their Highnesses Princes Kawananakoa and Kalaniana'ole, Rev. S. E. Bishop, Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Merritt, Hon. and Mrs. S. M. Damon, Professor W. D. Alexander, Hon. A. S. Wilcox, Hon. G. N. Wilcox, Hon. F. Gay, Hon. H. S. Townsend, Hon. W. H. Rice, Hon. H. M. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Carter, Mr. F. A. Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooke, Colonel and Mrs. W. F. Allen, Miss Dickinson, Mrs. S. N. Castle, Miss Knight and many others.

The ceremony took place in the principal classroom, Dr. Hyde, Vice-President of the institution, presiding. As the royal party entered the pupils sang the Hawaiian National Anthem. After which the Rev. S. E. Bishop offered prayer in Hawaiian.

Dr. Hyde then read the inaugural address, eloquently expounding those fundamental principles of Christianity in pursuance of which the institution had been founded, which it was intended should form the basis of the curriculum, and which had prompted the noble lady who had caused its endowment as a fitting memorial to Kamehameha the Great. The trustees had received the property from the executors of Mrs. Bishop's estate and given bonds to the Supreme Court in January, 1886, and only those who knew the difficulties there were in the management of large estates could fully appreciate the energy that must have been exerted when it was considered how little delay had arisen. The work in which Hon. C. R. Bishop and his able coadjutor, Hon. S. M. Damon, had been engaged in for several months was one which needed time, as well as skill, thought and energy. One obtrusive thought came up in the fact that Mr. Bishop, owing to his absence from the Kingdom, could not be present to welcome the many friends whose presence showed the interest they took in the school. The best educational advantages had been provided, and although they were specially intended for the benefit of Hawaiians, they were not exclusively so. No trouble had been experienced in finding a suitable man to take charge. Rev. W. B. Oleson, who had successfully managed the Hilo Boarding-school, was specially fitted for the work, and had been appointed on April 15, 1886. It had, however, been thought advisable to afford him an opportunity of visiting the States, not only that he might enjoy a rest before entering upon his new sphere of labor, but also to enable him to visit similar institutions there. During his absence the principal's residence had been built, the artesian well had been sunk and work had been begun upon the dormitories. One of the latter was still in course of erection. Industrial training was to be a special feature, but owing to delays which were inevitable the arrangements for carrying out the several branches of instruction were not all complete. The carpenter's shop, laundry-room and culinary department were in working order, but the printing-presses and type were not yet to hand. At present the pupils numbered forty or so of the class whom they hoped to welcome year after year. Those who had passed the requisite examination and had been admitted to the school at the outset possessed a special privilege in being the first, and the hope was expressed that they would do credit to the school. Mrs. Bishop's will directed that the trustees should provide a good education in the common English subjects, coupled with a sound moral training, such as would fit the scholars to become useful members of society. Education in the higher branches was to be subsidiary. Industrial training was to be a special feature, and no effort would be spared by the trustees to fulfill the wise designs of the large-hearted woman who had endowed the institution.

Some impromptu remarks were made by Rev. S. E. Bishop, Hon. S. M. Damon, Hon. H. S. Townsend, Professor Alexander and Hon. W. H. Rice, all of whom expressed confidence in the executive.

Hon. H. M. Whitney spoke at some length, urging upon the boys the advantage of knowing a trade, and concluded with a promise of $20 as a premium to the boy who made the most progress in printing during the first twelve months. He also held out to them prospects of employment.

Rev. W. C. Merritt gave a brief address, eulogizing the principles which formed the basis of the establishment.

His Majesty the King then addressed the boys in Hawaiian. He pointed out to them that the name which the school bore was the name of one who had been famous for his industry before he had become famous as a warrior. It was not simply the work of the hands which would lead to success in life, but it was the intelligence which sprang from doing any work well. It was this intelligence which His Majesty urged the boys to strive after.

The gist of these remarks was interpreted by Dr. Hyde.

The ceremony concluded with the hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

At the invitation of the Principal, the visitors then proceeded to inspect the kitchen, the dormitories, the carpenter shop, etc., and were very favorably impressed with the uniform cleanliness and general good order which prevailed. The deferential demeanor of the pupils was also very noticeable.

The staff of teachers by whom Mr. Oleson will be assisted includes Miss C. A. Reamer, Miss Laura Dressler and Mr. W. S. Terry. The latter gentleman will provide instructions in carpentering and blacksmithing, Mr. Oleson in printing and the lady teachers in tailoring.

A healthier or more cheerful site than that on which the buildings stand at Palama could scarcely have been selected, and it appeared evident that the visitors were well satisfied with the manner in which the provisions of the will of the late Mrs. Bishop are being carried out.

A considerable length of time was occupied in making a tour of inspection, and as their Majesties were about to depart a large bouquet was respectfully presented by one of the elder scholars and graciously accepted by the Queen.

Fire at Waikiki.

Last evening a reflection was seen in the sky in the direction of Waikiki, which indicated that there was a fire. Upon investigation it appears that two cottages near to Princess Liliuokalani's residence were burned to the ground. They were occupied by natives. The fire was first discovered in one cottage, but could not be put out, and the flames spread rapidly to the other building. The origin of the fire is unknown.
